Racial Injustice is something that should not keep on happening. Although it is true that it is happening, it really disturbs me when I think of what is happening to our nation as these issues keep on lasting. The tragic deaths of George Floyd and others have finally alarmed our nation that this finally needs to stop and be put to an end. “Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere” said by our late hero, Martin Luther King Jr. People have the right to live no matter what. I just hate the fact that this has not ended but I also love the fact that together as a nation, we are addressing this. I mean finally after years of injustice and countless deaths of innocent people; we are the ones that are fighting for them. We are the ones that are taking a stand for them. They might not be here, but I am sure that if Martin Luther King Jr. were here he would have put a huge smile on his face after seeing us together remembering what he said and using it to bring peace and justice throughout our nation. I like how we as a community in Buffalo are taking this seriously and are making sure that we address this issue properly. I am here with you guys. We need to be together no matter the race, and fight through this. One day after all these struggles we all together will win for our past, present, and future.

“Struggle is a never-ending process. Freedom is never really won; you earn it and win it in every generation. - Coretta Scott King
