CONTINUITY OF INSTRUCTION
Thousands of our teachers continue to work diligently each day with Instructional Technology Coaches for e-teaching skills, which they use to communicate lessons and feedback to their students through prepared learning packets, Schoology and other online platforms. Teachers also communicate on Workplace by Facebook, where they share emerging best practice ideas and tips. BPS teachers and staff have become highly innovative in developing and sharing these best practices as we work together to care for the whole child—-from food service, to academics, to the social-emotional welfare of our students. As the Education Bargain clearly describes, we must rely on the full partnership of our parents for the continuity of educational opportunity for all of our children.

CHILDCARE
1) Of approximately 1900 individuals who have opened the child care assistance survey on the BPS homepage, approximately 140 have indicated they are in an essential job per the Governor’s Executive Order and need assistance with child care as of 4/17. Approximately 1300 slots are available to District parents.

2) All respondents have been contacted by our community partner, Child Care Resource Network (CCRN) and offered placement options. On average, a few more parent submissions and contacts are made each day.

3) Each day, survey results are provided to our partner, CCRN. CCRN indicates to us that there is sufficient availability in child care slots to address the District need.

Respectfully,

Kriner Cash
Superintendent
